Media Advisory for Journalists, Bloggers, Science Influencers:

Accreditation for the 7th Lindau Meeting on Economic Sciences

- Online Access to the Meeting from 23–27 August 2022
- Programme at lindau-nobel.org
- Interview possibilities with Economics Laureates and young economists from around 70 nations

Media representatives may now register for accreditation to the 7th Lindau Meeting on Economic Sciences (#LINOecon). For capacity reasons (indoor event/pandemic precaution), journalists, bloggers, and science influencers will be able to follow the programme online via livestream also this year. Interviews and background discussions with participating Laureates and young economists will be possible.

Nearly 20 recipients of the Sveriges Riksbank's Prize in Economic Sciences in Memory of Alfred Nobel have confirmed their participation in the meeting. This would be the largest number of Laureates ever at a Lindau Meeting on Economic Sciences. They will play a major role in shaping the programme from Tuesday, 23 August, to Saturday, 27 August 2022, and will exchange ideas with about 400 invited young economists from all over the world.

David Card and Joshua D. Angrist have also confirmed their attendance. They received the 2021 Economics Prize for their empirical contributions to labour economics. In addition, Paul R. Milgrom, awarded in 2020 for his research on auctions, will attend the meeting.

Structure of the Meeting Programme

The programme begins on Tuesday, 23 August at 14.00 hrs CEST, with an opening ceremony. The scientific part will start with two lectures, followed by a panel discussion on the topic of auctions. After the two years of the pandemic, there will be plenty of space throughout the week for scientific and personal exchange and encounters between economists of different generations and cultures.

On the following three days, programme formats such as lectures, panel discussions and Next Gen Economics sessions will take place in the Lindau Inselhalle, complemented by Laureate Lunches. On the closing day (Saturday, 27 August), with the traditional boat trip to Mainau Island, the topic of "Economics and Politics between War and Sanctions" will be on the agenda.
